KAMALA HARRIS IS DOING SOMETHING BRILLIANT UP THERE ON THE TIGHTROPE

Given that Kamala Harris is running for the world's most powerful elected office, it's no surprise to see voters and pundits commenting on her "power moves" and "boss energy." What's remarkable is that they mean it as a compliment. That's a far cry from the experience of many women — in politics and beyond — who have dared to assert themselves.

Seeking power has always been a maddening tightrope walk for women. Show up as too dominant, and they're seen as cold; reveal too much vulnerability (or, God forbid, cry), and they seem weak. Over time, Ms. Harris has figured out how to navigate these double standards, and her playbook may help other women do it, too. Continue reading...

THE NINE PILLARS OF GREAT SCHOOL LEADERSHIP

Great leadership matters – from the frontline of the school to the Headteacher it is the most important advantage any school can have. That is why there is so much attention paid to it with a huge growth in the published literature and it is a rich area of on-going research. This pamphlet seeks to identify from the literature and action research the characteristics of great school leadership. It is part of a series which first identified the Nine Pillars of Great Schools (2016 and 2018) based on the literature and nine volumes of case studies from London's outstanding schools published between 2010 and 2019.
